

future conduct of state affairs. The conference was eminently satisfactory. This announcement meant not only that the people had won their great fight with their emperor, but also that Von Buelow would remain in office, guiding the destinies of the country. His Majesty, it is known, expressed his complete confidence in the Chancellor, and the Chancellor will not resign. The outcome has been that already there is a visible amelioration of the very serious internal situation which existed in Germany for the past fortnight.

Chancellor von Buelow, in the course of his interview with the Emperor, asked him for a declaration, together with permission to publish it, to the effect that in the future the Emperor would deal with state affairs only through the existing constitutional channels, namely through the Chancellor. His Majesty acceded to this request, and the declaration asked for appeared in the Reichsanzeiger to-day, as follows:

"In the course of the audience granted to-day by the Emperor to Chancellor von Buelow the Chancellor described to the Emperor the mood of the nation and explained his position with reference to the debate in the Reichstag of last Tuesday. The Emperor listened to these explanations with great interest, and expressed his will as follows:

"Headless of the obvious incorrectness of the Reichstag, His Majesty considered his principle aim to be to secure the continuance of the imperial policies under the safekeeping of the constitution. He approved the Chancellor's address in the Reichstag and assured the Emperor of his continued confidence."

Immediately after his return from Potsdam, Chancellor von Buelow held a confidential council and communicated to them the details of his audience with the Emperor. The President of the Reichstag, Count von Stoberg, had a prolonged conference with the Chancellor immediately after the meeting with the Emperor.

As already stated in these despatches, it was known in advance that the Chancellor would set forth to the Kaiser at to-day's meeting the following facts regarding the Emperor's indisposition to action in matters of state:

First—That the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Bundestag or Federal Council, is firm in the opinion that it would be wiser for the Emperor not to express views affecting the relations of the empire with other countries, except through his responsible Ministers.

Second—That the entire Reichstag assented to the declarations made by the speakers on Tuesday of last week that the Emperor should not exercise constitutional prerogatives in private discussion with foreigners concerning Germany's attitude on controversial questions.

Third—That the feeling of the people at large on this matter was accurately indicated by the press of the country.

In Kaiser's Defense.

This meeting, which was watched by the entire German people with the most profound interest, is really an outcome of the much-discussed "Interview With an Englishman," published in the London Daily Telegraph, on Oct. 18, in which the Emperor was credited with a very frank statement of the world policy of the German Empire, and also with being a very good ruler of Great Britain. The publication was followed by a furious outbreak in Germany against His Majesty. He was most severely criticized in the German press, and in the Reichstag for his indiscretion, his assumption of the royal prerogative, and for unwarranted interference in state affairs.

In his defense, Emperor William before the Reichstag Prince von Buelow declared last week that some of the statements contained in the "Interview" in the Daily Telegraph were incorrect, particularly that referring to the sending by the Emperor to the late Queen Victoria of a detailed plan of campaign to end the war, concerning the statement attributed to Emperor William that a majority of the German people are hostile to Great Britain, and that the Emperor's expression used by the Telegraph was too strong. Too great stress also had been laid upon the point in the interview dealing with German interests in the Pacific Ocean, which had been incorrectly represented as being in Japan. For twenty years, the Chancellor continued, the Emperor had given to the world the impression that Great Britain.

When William Rockefeller arrived in New York this morning, his country home was being visited by a subpoena by United States Marshal Hinkel for his appearance as a witness for the defense in the Standard Oil Company which is going on before Judge Ferris.

This makes the last one of the "big four" of Standard Oil. John D. Rockefeller, John H. D. Rockefeller, and James A. Moffat, having been heard on Monday.

The little courtroom of Judge Franklin Ferris, on the fifth floor of the Standard Oil Company, was packed with spectators when the Standard Oil Company was heard on Monday.

It is not likely that Mr. Rockefeller will be on the stand, as the Standard Oil Company has completed its defense. The Standard Oil Company, however, is not likely to be on the stand, as the Standard Oil Company has completed its defense.

REVOLT IN CHINA IS DREADED BY THE NEW RULER

Prince Chun, Hedged on All Sides by Conflicting Forces, Has Troops Ready.

TROUBLE SEEMS SURE.

But Regent Is Resourceful and Looks First to the Army—Japan Watching.

PEKING, Nov. 17.—Prince Chun, the new regent of the Chinese Empire, stands to-day imperiled on either side by governmental extremists. On one side he is threatened by the Conservatives, who, fearing a reign of Liberalism in the new regime, are threatening a reactionary uprising. On the other side are the Radicals, who are demanding the immediate establishment of a form of government far more liberal than the regent has ever contemplated.

In addition to these there is the danger of rival candidates for the throne. There is bitter complaining that the regency did not go to Prince Pu Lun, the favorite of a majority of the advanced Chinese and of nearly all the foreigners in China.

City Under Guard.

Prince Chun is proving himself a capable executive in the new crisis. The city is under the control of police and soldiers, and the first attempt at a revolutionary movement will meet with the sternest punishment as a warning to others.

Vague rumors of the poisoning of both the Emperor and Dowager Empress continue to fill the city. While the vast majority of the people believe the rumor, it is recognized that there is little likelihood of the charge ever being proved.

There are many who believe that Yuan Shi Kai, the Grand Councillor and one of the most progressive Chinese in the empire, is the real power behind the new throne. The Grand Councillor is far more advanced in his ideas than Prince Chun, and the fact that he has so far been able to give hearty support to the Regent's acts is believed to mean that the Regent is acting upon advice received from Yuan Shi Kai.

Ready for Revolt.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The British Foreign Office received advice to-day that Japan is preparing for whatever emergency the Chinese crisis may develop. Despite Japanese denials of interference in China's affairs there is every indication that the Mikado is actively giving the possibilities of the Oriental situation and will not be found unprepared in any event.

Chinese messages, reaching London by way of Japan, say that Prince Chun has appointed a Chinese army and appointing division commanders with separate authority, as he feels a trust to a consolidation of power under any general.

This is taken to mean that serious disaffection exists in the ranks of the army and gives color to the report that a revolution is threatened.

Reform Leader Opposes Chun.

PENANG, Straits Settlement, Nov. 17.—Kang Yu Wei, the leader of the Chinese reform movement throughout the world, is at present in Penang. He is ill and confined to his bed, however, and he to-day refused an interviewer's request to give his opinion on the present situation in China, on the ground that he had been laid up with grief over the death of the Emperor.

Kang Yu Wei was very close to the late Emperor, and it was through his inspiration that the many reform edicts of that period were issued. He is regarded as the most influential of the reformers, and his death would be a great loss to the movement.
